Conference Commissioner Visited, Skyline Officiating Situation Aired

by Roy Tracy
Daily Universe Writer

AFTER severely criticizing Mountain States Athletic Commissioner L. C. Romney in an editorial on the issue of present officiation conditions in the Skyline Conference, a committee composed of members of the Daily Universe staff presented Romney with a list of 'constructive criticisms' Wednesday afternoon.

The Daily Universe has, in two articles, presented Romney's point of view on the subject and now the suggestions of which were recommended by the officiating improvement committee.

1. IT IS recommended that under the present system of rating officials, none with an average rating of less than "two", in the coaches poll, be allowed to officiate in Skyline varsity games.

It is recommended that written reports be made to the commissioner by officials, (especially concerning technical fouls), after each game. These reports should be made available to the coaches after the game is played. They should, in general, sum up the officials' feeling of how the game progressed.

IT IS FELT THAT coaches should be called with a technical foul for illegal demonstrations on the sidelines. This is a touchy point, because game officials are rated by the coaches and are therefore reluctant to offend them directly.

To remedy this, perhaps a method could be worked out whereby coaches would not be allowed to rate the official who called technical fouls on them for particular games.

3. A MORE thorough training program should be instituted for officials in the Skyline Conference. A school, approximately three weeks in duration should be established.

No referee or umpire should be allowed to officiate in the Skyline varsity games unless he has been graduated from this training school. Visiting officials from other conferences who do not regularly officiate at skyline games would, of course, be the exception to this rule.

4. IN ADDITION to the required training before becoming a MSAC official, each man should attend an annual two week clinic, in which demonstrations and discussions are utilized in giving these officials a strong background and understanding of basketball officiation.

5. Officials should take more pride in their task, and be more conscientious in fulfilling their responsibilities at games. They should develop a fearless type personality. A referee develops crowd respect by this type of action.

THIS IS directly related to crowd sportsmanship, since an official who is able to keep the coaches' reactions confined to less demonstrative procedure sometimes holds the key to crowd reactions — particularly booing.

6. A general campaign should be conducted throughout the skyline conference to promote more respect for officials. This might take the form of familiarizing the conference with the referees through newspaper releases. TV, radio.

ABOVE ALL, the Daily Universe feels the public should be made aware—especially student participation—that progress in effect which are designed to improve the quality of officiating, and the ability of officials in their work.

IE LDS Business College in L. Wilkinson, administrator of Lake City has returned to the United Church School Syspendent status after five s as a branch of Brigham ng University, it was an- tion and president of Brigham ced Thursday by Dr. Ernest Young University.

"The College has strengthened its program during recent years and is better prepared to serve business students than ever before," stated Pres Wilkinson.

KENNETH S. BENNION, director of the LDS Business College, said that in some ways the separation will be beneficial, since it will permit the school to specialize and operate more closely with the policies of the National Association and Council of Business Schools, of which it is a prominent member.

Under the branch arrangement with BYU, the college had to parallel courses, classes and textbooks of the University.

WE ARE TAKING active steps to strengthen contacts with the businessmen of Salt Lake and the Intermountain area who depend on us directly for employees in order to meet their current needs," Bennion said.

LDS Business College credits have been accepted for more than 25 years in most universities by individual examination. The school is accredited by the National Association of Private Business Schools, which is recognized by the U. S. Office of Education as the authorized agency for accreditation of private business schools.

The College will continue as an autonomous unit of the Church School System, and as such will remain under the direction of Administrator Wilkinson. Also its religion classes will be under the administration of William E. Berrett, vice president in charge of religious education of the Church School System. However, it will no longer be part of the BYU College of Commerce.

BYU Role Discussed At Regional Seminar

by Barbara Miller

TWO IMPORTANT areas of inter-school relations at Brigham Young University's role in the college world are under consideration by the National Student Association this weekend.

Murray McInnes, NSA coordinator for BYU, reported on a planning session for the Utah Regional International Seminar held Tuesday and studied requirements for the new NSA delegates.

The seminar, to be held at the University of Utah April 4, 5, and 6, will be concerned with foreign student relations on U.S. campuses and the improvement of international relations between students.

BYU DELEGATES to this seminar will be chosen from interested students who have a desire to improve and better understand world campus relations and understanding. Any person interested can obtain an application for the regional seminar in the studentbody office. Student Service Center. Delegates will be chosen from these applicants.

After regional seminars are held by member colleges around the country, 10 outstanding delegates will be offered an opportunity to attend the International Seminar being held in Cambridge, Mass., during July and August.

THIS SEMINAR is designed to develop a select group of individuals who will be able to contribute to the development of NSA international programming on the member campuses.

These delegates will also aid in the planning of effective international programs on member campuses, improving these campuses of the programs and policies of NSA in relation to its overseas contacts and interesting qualified students in participating in the international activities of NSA.

SELECTION OF A new NSA coordinator and five other NSA delegates for BYU is underway according to McInnes. The coordinator and other delegates will be chosen or appointed by the present coordinator and student body president with a confirming vote of the appointments being given by the Senate and studentbody president elect.

The NSA coordinator will be comparable to a foreign ambassador, according to Monroe McKay, studentbody president. Since the BYU student government is modeled after the same system as that of the federal government the role of foreign relations, that is relations between BYU and other universities, carries weight.

IT WILL BE THE responsibility of the coordinator to carry ideas and methods from BYU to other campuses and to bring back their ideas and methods.

The six delegates will attend the NSA Congress to be held in Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 21 to 31. Besides the NSA coordinator the delegation will consist of the studentbody president elect, and four other members.

Snowless Carnival Ends With Dance

Balloons and animal silhouettes are to be the decorations at the Snowless Dance Saturday at 8:30 p.m., according to dance chairman Richard Flinter.

Refreshments will consist of cake rolls and lemon-lime punch.

The dance in the Smith Field house will have music by the "Y's Men" and the Smith Family Living Center will host the Jerry Hyde combo.

Dress will be heels and hose. Tickets will be $.75 per couple and $.50 stag

Tickets are being sold in advance at the Smith Building, the Eyring Science Center and the McKay Building. Hunter urges students to get tickets in advance because of a limited supply.

Coed Vocalist Sought

A semi-classical, feminine vocalist is being sought by the Student Program Bureau.

The vocalist will be used with tours of the SPB next quarter It is asked that the singer not be affiliated with the music department.

Those coeds interested in auditioning contact Juana Dalton at the program bureau office before Friday or call extension 2831.

IF HE WILL

A MAN CONVINCED against his will is of the same opinion still.

Such has been the impression of a representative presenting a list of constructive criticisms on Skyline officiating to Mountain States Athletic Commissioner L. C. Romney.

Certainly Mr. Romney is sincere and earnest about his job, and certainly he has done splendid service to coaches, players and sports fans throughout the mountain states region.

He HAS INITIATED many new programs to aid Skyline officials and promote the conference as a whole. Among them, he has supported a rating system for officials, and has served on the national basketball rules committee.

He has obtained national TV hookups for Skyline games. And he has created a referee appeal which is conference wide.

But the facts still remain, that in spite of Mr. Romney's splendid record, the Skyline Conference has grown faster than the present system of providing officials.

ALTHOUGH we do not condone booing under any circumstances we feel that the steady rise of bad sportsmanship, particularly the booing of officials at Brigham Young University games is a direct result of poor officiation.

No one has the right to boo an official who is well trained and is enforcing the rules of the game as best he sees them. But unless referees keep the coaches from jumping up and illegally ranting around, booing will persist!

UNLESS referees are given more efficient training, and selected in a better way, booing will persist.

If the public is not shown that definite steps are being taken to improve Skyline officiating, booing will still persist!

So, we are hoping that Mr. Romney doesn't take "with a grain of salt" the suggestions for improvement that the Daily Universe officiating improvement committee has given him—and that he is convinced not against his will, but so he will . . .

Dear Editor:

Due to the work of the Better English Committee extend to the "committee staff" to all future writers, among others, and include a purging.

We Daily Universe writers could use Freshman English! If not, there must be absolutely no Tuesday P knowledge.

At the risk of sounding like a smelly English teacher, which I am, I should like to say that it certainly do not lighten the load of other stuffy English teachers by reporting such statements as "Showers lay outside and soak the sunshine from the sky, and the sunshine from the ground," and "This might be a parting thought. I don't know for sure but girls are boys best weather friends, but don't let an early touch of spring fever overcome you so much that you wind up sunned." These are not just isolated examples. Other such total, and unglossed beauty every day.

It strikes that a newspaper operates under deadline pressure, I realize that a newspaper is allowed a certain amount of journalistic license, but I do think the staff should improve either the English or its eyesight!

Speaking Wet...

Dear Sir:

Recently the hub-bub over unbelievable rivalry made it advisable for us to put slightly damn the opinion of the columnists.

The Senator referred to attempted co gain the floor to give a report. The presiding officer advised him that the time specified in the agenda for giving reports had passed and that he was out of order.

HOWEVER, THE SENATOR was advised that he could move that the rules be suspended. He made this motion, and it did not pass The meeting was about to proceed to other business when attention of the presiding officer was again called to the fact that the Senator desired the floor to make the report.

The presiding officer then suggested with established rules of parliamentary procedure—was labeled "childish haggling" by the Universe reporter.

THE ISSUE basically is this: How should the right to speak be determined? Should the power to decide be given to the presiding officer? Obviously, if the latter course is followed, the "haggling" described above would have to be eliminated. But this poses another problem. Do the voters prefer to let a presiding officer determine when their representative shall be allowed speak or present them their views?

OF COURSE, this gives the right of the floor to the minority as well, for each time a person gains the floor all others are deprived of the right to speak. Hence, would the voters prefer to give the presiding officer the right to deprive their representative from speaking? This, I believe, each voter should decide for himself.

In giving for myself, as a voter, I can firmly state that I would far rather have the right to be heard guaranteed by rules of fair procedure, i.e. Parliamentary Procedure, as was the case in the described incident.

FURTHERMORE, I hope that if my representative ever feels that he is being deprived of his right he will use every measure of "childish haggling" (i.e. parliamentary or "fair" procedure) to gain the floor and express his views. A representative body is of no value to me if any representative is prevented from gaining the floor

In conclusion let it be known that the five minutes of "haggling" were prolonged to nearly two minutes and that as a Senator I shall continue to do all in my power to protect those rules which give me the right to speak and represent my constituents

Dennis Olsen
Senate President

(Ed. Note: Students are invited to attend Senate sessions to determine whether or not "haggling" is descriptive of the Senate conduct.)

Just Haggling...

Dear Editor:

In the WIT letter of the column From The Tower, appearing in the Daily Universe, Feb 11, I resented several charges against the Student Senate. One of these being charges of "childish haggling" over whether or not a senator should be given the floor to speak.

Although the columnist is entitled to state her views, I believe that she presumes too much when she claims to be speaking for the students.

MY BASIC FAITH in this studentbody is such that I believe that if they were to see the charge in the light of evidence, they would be the first to condemn the opulence of the Senate's quarters in the campus

WELL, HERE WE are again at the end of "Pleb Season." Everything has happened this last week on our generally quiet campus

A scattering of Tausig 'goats' allegedly released two bewildered doves in the main lobby of the Eyring Science Center. To the delight of several coeds the trapped birds fluttered about the two story entrance hall for several minutes before seeking refuge on an isolated window sill.

One wonders whether to feel sorry for the perched fouls or for the "goats" who proceeded to loudly serenade them should give more support to game officials and help to defend them against undue criticism—but they should work to see that cause for criticism seldom arises.

No other casualties were reported and I understand that all had a "fab" time.

7. IT IS FELT that if three officials worked each game there would be more complete coverage and a more orderly and sportsmanlike game would result.

This, we realize, would necessitate change in rules. We feel, however, it is of sufficient importance to merit consideration. Three officials were on the floor for the BYU freshman-Hill Air Force game Feb. 19, with excellent results.

At the outset it is realized that there are problems involved in the adopting of these suggestions of which we are not aware.

AS A STUDENT newspaper that is vitally interested in the sportsmanship of crowds at BYU basketball games, we feel it in the best interests of the university and the conference to request that these suggestions and recommendations be given careful consideration.

Upon reading the suggestions submitted by the committee, Romney said he believed that

Library To Offer Classification, Reference Course

by JoAnn Long
Daily Universe Writer

A course is now being offered that teaches the basic classification system, use of the card catalog, and the use of reference tools, such as periodical indexes, encyclopedias in library.

This course, entitled Library Science 11, carries two hours of credit and may prove invaluable to those who normally long along year after year trying to avoid use of the library because they don't know how to use it.

Mrs. Hattie M. Knight, supervisor of library science, reports that one afternoon of observance in the reference room would convince anyone that students waste an appalling amount of time in the library each day.

She said that this is easily seen by the type of questions asked at the desk. Then too, it is doubtful whether the more timid person even asks questions.

these suggestions come from sound thinking, and that the "commission will give full consideration to them." He stated that if "some of them cannot be put into practice as such, then perhaps good substitutes might be found.

AWS Applications Due Friday; Duties of Officers Outlined

Petitions are still available for Associated Women Students offices, according to Janice Hull, elections chairman.

Those wishing to file petitions must do so at once, since they must be turned in to the AWS office by 5 p.m. Friday, Miss Hull said.

Bonnie Berrett, AWS president, outlined the officers' duties.

The president conducts all meetings. She is a member of the cabinet, senate, and health committee and organizes all AWS activities.

Duties of the vice-president are to substitute for the president whenever possible and to advise the Junior AWS council and coordinate all their activities.

Responsibilities of the secretary include all correspondence. She also takes the minutes, keeps the scrapbook and performs various secretarial duties.

The treasurer regulates all financial duties and plans the budget for the year.

Promoter Cancels Fullmer-Durando Fight In Denver

Due to a cut received over his left eye in a recent bout with Ernie Durando, Middleweight Champion Gene Fullmer will be unable to fight his ten round non-title bout with Charley Cotton Feb. 25 in Denver.

Denver promoter, Joe Dupler made the cancellation announcement Tuesday night at the request of Fullmer's manager. Asked why Dupler stated that he had installed televised fight, still still to be held with Cotton previously known as Ralph "Tex" Jones instead of Fullmer.

Fullmer was to fight "King" Cotton as a warm up for his championship bout with Sugar Robinson April 24th, but Robinson doesn't want to take a chance on further injury to Fullmer's eye.

the Brighams inside shooting too.

All in all, the Cougars couldn't beg, borrow or steal two pointers in the opening period. The Cats were able to pick up only six field goals in the first half, shooting a phenomenally low 13.6 per cent from the field in the opening period. The Utes, on the other hand, were pouring through 33.3 per cent of their tries from the field during the first twenty minutes.

CURT JENSON and Pearl Pollard were the Redskins that kept the ball-poor Cougars in the opening period of play. Jenson, picking up 12 of his 18 points for the evening in the first half, scored five in the last game, and kept the Cats hopping with his deadly jump shot. Pollard, scoring 10 of his 18 points in the opening stanza, was a continual thorn in the Brigham side with his tip-ins and backboard play.

JOHN BENSON hit for ten points in the first period to keep the Cats in the game. At the half Utah held a 36-32 advantage.

BYU came back out on the court looking like they were going to catch the renegade Redskins and pass them up on the scoreboard.

The Brigham hit for 6 points on three field goals in the first two minutes of the second period, but then the Utah forces roared back with six points of their own before the Cats were able to again find the range.

THAT WAS the last real challenge the Cougars were able to muster as the Utes poured it on the evening.

Coach Watts, at first refusing to try and find a explanation that would work on the Utah club, finally was running in the reserves to the end of the game. Monday Saturday, Coach Jack Gardner also began clearing his bench, leaving only substitutions against the Cats.

All together, 27 players saw action in the game, 14 for the Cougars and 13 for BYU.

Fite Nite Features Wrestling, Boxing In Rescheduled Match

The Associated Men's Student Committee has announced that the 5th annual Intramural Fite Night has been slated for March 9th.

Previously the annual contest was scheduled for April 18th. However, the promoters thought that the student interest would have been sidelined by the conflict of other Spring activities.

Competition in the manly arts of wrestling and boxing is open to any male student interested except boxers or wrestlers who have obtained a Varsity letter either at Brigham Young University or at any other four year college.

Matches have been arranged in every weight division, and those conflicts should provide plenty of action for the fans.

According to Bill Hafen, Intramural director, all entries to participate in any of the competitions must be accompanied by a physical report that has been certified by a doctor. In order to facilitate this, the required forms have been made available by the intramural department, and will be handed out between Feb. 23-28.

Weigh-in time for the participants will be Feb. 28th in the main dressing room of the Smith Fieldhouse, between 4 and 5:30 p.m.

For those who enter the tourney and don't get worked between now and the preliminaries, the wrestling and boxing rooms will be open on Feb. 21, 25, 26, 27, and 28th, between 7:30 and 9:30 p.m.

The winner in each division will be presented with an individual medal, while social units and clubs will be given points toward the Supremacy Trophy. Enough points will be handed out during the contest to enable any club to gain possession of the coveted trophy.

Cats Journey To Montana In Road Finale

by Mark Murphy

Saturday's tilt between tans and Brigham Young certifully shrouded with a ju mist of doubt.

Can the league-leading weather the storm in Salt against Utah State still enough reserve to take o South Northerner?

Can Tom Steinke's ank dure the gueling pace of with the speedy B Thursday and still hold Missoula?

Will the seemingly unsolable home-court advantage up for the Grizzlies?

Most of all, can the Co clinch the Skyline crown a victory over Coach Jo Cox's Montanans.

It's not much fun to be a fearless prognosticator when the Cougars apparently a the conference burden Mo with a three-game lead, a vided they get over Utah this coming weekend. The wastes of Montana's northe had to be the downfall of title aspirants.

Losses to Utah and Mo would put the Provo five cat on a hot tin roof situ with certainly the best to excete Coach Stan Watts, would provide Denver the victors opportunity to step the Cougars out of the title race.

Miracles have happened especially in Skyline sports.

Montana will be out to their final venture on hazardous road of Mon this basketball season.

Montana is going to be thing but down in the dum whether they conquer Uta uel.

Montanans are throughi the Grizzly hoop wars but their granddaddies hurri stake claims some time ago.

They're proud of this team, and would pay plen way of praise should the tors Provo and Colorado

The rough Grizzlies have ten straight games on the a maple and are out to mak eleven against the Cats.

Denver hurt the Mont championship hopes by e the visiting Silvertips 55-5 weekend.

Their most recent against New Mexico mark milestone in Montana cage tuals. The 36-33 win was tona's first Skyline victory by from home since Feb 28, b when they edged the same Lobos.
